Website Development

PHASE- I Website Development – Plan and Elaborate the Project

In this phase, Once the project is confirmed, the objective is to understand your requirements. These are brainstorming sessions that help determine the business objectives and marketing goals. Prototype story boards or screen layouts are used for role-playing.

In this phase, Customer continuous involvement and feedback needed to develop robust business application.

PHASE- II Website Development – Planning and Confirmation

During this stage, we scope and design and infrastructure needed for the project. Our Technical experts advise the client on options available with respect to architectural approaches and technology solutions for project implementation.

Based on the architecture and technology chosen, the development team of Programmers, graphic designers and project managers draft a development plan for the project with cost and time estimation.

PHASE- III Website Development - Design and Develop

A prototype development methodology ensures smooth communication between user and developer with different backgrounds.

Methodology - In this methodology, once the preliminary requirements are clarified, the next step is to quickly build the layout & prototype of the business application. From then on, it is the continuing evolution of this prototype until it becomes the final product, exact to specifications.
